EMERGENCY SCHOOL OPENED AT YOU BET HAS 20 PUPILS

The old mining town of You Bet is evidently coming to the front again. For years it has been classed as a ghost town, its school district lapsed a number of years ago, and its territory and its school building become the property of Nevada School District.

With the influx of children, due to mining revival, application was made to Ella M. Austin, county superintendent of schools, to reestablish the district, but this could not be done at this time and it was decided to establish an emergency school, and Miss Martha Lawrence of Nevada City was chosen as teacher.

School Funds Are Allotted For 1933 - 34

Counties To Receive Practically Double Appropriation For Coming Term

Apportionment of state funds to school districts in Superior California counties was announced today by the state department of education for the 1933-34 term.

This year's allocations include the usual state support to local school districts of $30 per pupil, plus an additional allocation pledged by the Riley-Stewart tax plan of $30 per pupil in the elementary schools and $60 per pupil in the high schools.

In this manner, the state apportionment for elementary schools is approximately doubled and the apportionment to the high schools trebled over preceding years.

Apportionments to Superior California counties follow:

	Elemetary	Hi School
Nevada	$103,541.56	$61.639.77
Placer	264,341.10	126,234.81

ROOSEVELT FAVORS N.I.R.A. AID TO MUNICIPAL POWER PROJECTS

The question is frequently asked whether municipal power-plant projects are eligible to loans under the Public Works and Construction Section of the Industrial Recovery Act. Based on President Roosevelt's own statement recently, the answer is definitely "yes," provided the projects are self-liquidating. Specifically exempting the statement from the rule that the President may not be quoted directly, Mr. Roosevelt, in a reply to a question addressed to him in the press conference on July 14, said "Municipal light plants will receive very favorable consideration. Of course, they must be self-liquidating."

The portion of the law under discussion permits the government to lend, under certain restrictions, up to 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials used.

Supplementing President Roosevelt's staement Secretary Ickes said at a later press conference, "I suppose in some cases they (municipal power plants) will compete with existing plants."

Asked whether that would interfere with approval of a municipal project by the Public-Works Board, Secretary Ickes replied: "Not at all. Each will be considered on its merits."

EARL KELLY HEADS MILLION-DOLLAR-A-WEEK ROAD PROGRAM

Department To Open Bids On $5,000,000 Highway Construction Jobs Soon

By THOMAS B. MALARKEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 14—(UP)—Behind the driving wheel of California's unprecedented million-dollar-a-week highway construction program sits Earl Lee Kelley, affable and able director of public works.

Probably no other official in the state's history has been compelled to oversee the expenditure of such a vast sum of public funds in as short time.

Between September 15 and October 1, the department will open bids on $5,000,000 of highway contracts. Thereafter until January 1, bids will be opened at a rate of $1,000,000 each week.

Purpose of the road building drive is to put as many men to work in as short time as possible. Kelly estimates that by the first of the year 50,000 new jobs will have been created, directly and indirectly.

Kelly appears, at first meeting to be a genial, easy-going and conciliatory man. Fact is, he's a stubborn fighter when crossed and possesses that indispensable executive asset—ability to say "no."

One of his hardest problems arose when Governor Rolph earnestly advocated gasoline tax diversion. Kelly, of course, is a Rolph appointee. On the other hand, he believed sincerely the gas tax should be reserved for highway construction.

Diplomatically, and yet firmly, he stuck by his guns and steadfastly followed his convictions on this issue. Partly through his influence the issue was referred to the people where his ideas were sustaned.

From time to time, Kelly and Finance Director Rolland Vandegrift have clashed on matters of state policy. Kelly has managed to hold his own, and better. Even in a cabinet battle he manages to get over his point without creating too many official enemies.

Recently heavy pressure was exerted on him to prevent transfer of two district highway offices from Sacramento to Marysville and Stockton. It was all to no avail. His mind was made up and, as he admitted, only Governor Rolph could change it.

Kelly, a successful Redding business man, is a self-made man. He is only in his early forties, but has been a newsboy, law student, aviator, mayor, business man and director of the tax research bureau. He now controls the Placer county highway on which, many years ago he worked as a mule skinner.

The director started out in business in Redding as a title insurance man and made a success of it from the start. He went to war as a buck private in the 12th Infantry, eighth division. Since the world conflict he has became an aviation enthusiast.

Sons of the American Revolution have planned to place suitable memorials or markers on all historic spots over the country in order to help provide employment.

STATE PATROLMEN TRAVEL 6,637,794 MILES IN 7 MONTHS

6800 Miles Of County Roads Are Added To State Highway System

By THOMAS B. MALARKEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 14—(UP)—New responsibilities imposed by the legislature and increased state highway mileage have added to the duties of California's 500 and some odd state highway patrolmen Raymond Cato, chief of the state highway patrol, has disclosed.

Some conception of the area patrolled by these trim and efficient highway officers was revealed in a seven months' report—from January 1, 1933 to July 31, inclusive—which showed they traveled a total of 6,637,794 miles. That mileage is equivalent to about 265 trips around the world.

Thirteen officers in Nevada county patrolled 50,469 miles of highway during the seven-month period.

One of Cato's major problems was caused by addition of approximately 6,800 miles of county road to the state highway system.

Without funds to increase his personnel, the partol chief said he was compelled to limit coverage of this secondary highway system to occasional patrols. In other words, primary highway surveillance will not be sacrificed by reason of the new state highway mileage.

The highway patrol must now handle detour problems and traffic routings where state highway road construction is under way. It must also assist the board of equalization in collection of truck taxes.

These new duties have added to Cato's problems but he is not shrugging his shoulders in despair. Instead he's digging into the situation with customary efficiency and does not believe patrol service will be impaired.

Aware that the new roads and added responsibilities really required more men, the motor vehicle department tried to secure additional revenue for the highway patrol at the last session of the legisuature. However their hopes were shattered by an economy bloc.

State Control Board Is Urged By Charles Johnson, Treasurer

"Millions Of Dollars A Year Can And Should Be Saved Our Taxpayers Through The Application Of Sound Business Principles In Operation Of State Government"

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 14—Complete abolition of the present cabinet form of government and substitution of a state board of control comprising elective state officials to manage the state's fiscal affairs were urged here today by State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson. Eliminating of the state department of finance would be the first step in his projected program.

"Our state government is honeycombed with expensive and useless boards and divisions and bureaus, all of them creatures of the destructive political spoils system," he said. "It is no wonder our taxpayers stand almost at the very threshold of open revolt. It is no wonder we are now struggling with a state deficit of many millions of dollars.

"To my mind, it is time to call a definite halt to this reckless and wanton expenditure of the people's money. It is time for the masses to arouse themselves and stamp out this arrogant bureaucracy which has been built up to gigantic proportions by the political spoils system over a period of years.

"Millions of dollars a year can and should be saved to our taxpayers through the application of sound business principles in the operation of our state government. We must get back to the fundamentals of government as contemplated by those who framed our constitution. The only other alternative is long years of continued financial stress.

"The affairs of state should be under the direct supervision and guidance of a state board of control composed of the governor, the lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state controller, state treasurer, chairman of the state board of equalization and attorney general. All of these are active state officials, elected by the people and answerable to the people. They should have equal voice in the operation of every branch of state government.

"First and foremost in these contemplated reforms would be the elimination of the state department of finance. There is not now one service conducted by this department, with its biennial appropriation of approximately a million dollars, which could not and should not be performed by the constitutional officers elected by the people. The head of this department is a political appointee of the governor, and yet he is given autocratic powers second to none in the state government. His salary is $10,000 a year, double that of the secretary of state, state controller and state treasurer. Official records disclose there are even clerks and attaches in the department of finance who are now receiving salaries in ex-

TWO MOST POPULAR STARS TOGETHER IN 'ADORABLE'

Two of the most popular screen players in the world are co-starred in "Adorable," Fox Film romantic comedy with music, coming to the Donner Theatre next Saturday and Sunday night.

They are Janet Gaynor and Henry Garat. Miss Gaynor, who has steadily climbed the ladder of popularity since her memorable performance in "7th Heaven," is admittedly the best magnet of all girls in pictures. Her productions are seen and heard by more persons throughout the world than those of any other actress.

Garat, on the other hand, is the most popular male star on the Continent where he has made pictures in English, French and German. Annoucement of his name as a member of a cast is the equivalent of a sell-out at every European theatre.

"SIERRA WAY" MOVEMENT DESERVES SUPPORT

The recently organized movement to boost the routing and building of an all Sierra Highway deserves the hearty support of the entire state as well as that of every county along the route.

The plan was first suggested by R. L. P. Bigelow, Supervisor of the Tahoe National Forest as a highway linking the National Forest areas of the northern part of the state and afterwards enlarged upon and fathered by Bruce R. Burnett, engineer of the United States Forest Service, who suggested the name "Sierra Way" and proposed it as a connecting Park to Park Highway.

National parks along the route include Mount Lassen, Yosemite, General Grant and Sequoia. The noted peaks are Mt. Shasta, Mt. Lassen and Mt. Whitney. Famous lakes include Almanor, Tahoe, Donner, Bass, Shaver and Huntington, reached by a side road. The route crosses such streams as the Feather River, Truckee, Stanislaus, Tuolumne, San Joaquin, Kings, Kaweah and Kern. State parks include McArthur Memorial and Calaveras Big Tree Grove.

Such a highway, extending for almost 800 miles along the top of the Sierra Nevada mountains, would soon rank as one of the most scenic in the world.

The proposal to have laws enacted to protect the natural scenic beauties from encroachment by signs, camps and business structures, restricting such to certain areas, is a worthy one deserving the support of every community along the route.

THE EDITORIAL CIRCUIT RIDER

By United Press

Henry Ford will align himself with the NRA program in due time, in the opinion of California editors.

He is too smart an operator to remain out of step with the movement, they insist, and will, when he believes his rights are protected, come under the Blue Eagle banner.

"Much seemingly unnecessary attention is being directed at Ford," said the Stockton Record, "because he has not yet accepted NRA and obtained his Blue Eagle. Undoubtedly Ford is quietly working out his tremendous problem in his own way, and before the time limit expires will sign the code. In the existing national emergency no man or business can hope to challenge the United States.

"Ford's position," remarks the Santa Rosa Press Democrat, "is somewhat different from that of most men who find themselves at the head of a big industry or great business institution. He and his son Edsel are sole owners of the Ford interest, which are immense in scope and importance. Responsibility for any move made in connection with the NRA or anything else consequently comes back upon Ford personally. Naturally he is disposed to know what he is doing before committing himself on propositions of such magnitude."

Granting that it would have been desirable to have him sign up when others did, the Imperial Valley Press believes "he is within his rights in taking time to think it over, particularly in view of the fact that he has been conducting his business under conditions which afford the worker even better terms, insofar as wages, hours and working conditions are concerned, than the NRA affords. Ford is an individualist. He always has been and always will be. Most of his most ardent admirers hope that he will ultimately come in under the code and believe that he will do so."

"What Ford does not like," comments the Oroville Mercury-Register, "is the possibility that his rivals who for the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce may see his books. He has fought them all along the line, and successfully, yet in this national emergency they are apt to get the low down on him. The administration may allow him the exception, and we hope they do, but we rather doubt it."

That Ford will sign up if asked to do so by President Roosevelt is the belief of the Hanford Daily Sentinel, which adds:

"Throughout the past administration ordeals, the president has proved himself equal to every embarrassing situation that has as yet arisen, and, while it is mere conjecture the possibility that he will appeal to Ford's patriotic sense of duty for a favorable decision on NRA acceptance is not unlikely. In such an event, Ford being the far-seeing man that he is, will have no other course than to put his name on the dotted line. He could not afford to do otherwise."

"It is our judgment," said the Inglewood Daily News "that Henry Ford, having heretofore unqualifiedly endorsed the efforts of President Roosevelt to restore national prosperity, will choose the most auspicious time to embrace the Blue Eagle, and will, when that time comes, crash the head lines of every newspaper in America. He is too smart an operator to remain out of step."

A VISION OF SICILY

Sicily! Sicilia! What music there is in the very name of that island set like a precious jewel in the blue Mediterranean; that stepping-stone between Europe and Africa which partakes of the characteristics of both continents!

To mention Sicily is to call up a vision of green hillsides and fertile valleys, white sands washed by indigo seas, purple mountains capped with snow, and, towering above them all, great Etna watching in pure majesty over the fair land of which she is undisputed queen.

Sicily the Enchantress, sung by poets in all ages, beloved alike by gods and men, casts her powerful spell far and wide over the earth. She is the dream, the goal, of thousands of would-be travelers, while those who have once visited her enchanted shores carry in their hearts the ceaseless longing to return.

In what does this spell consist that its power should be felt by persons of all nationalities, and of widely differing culture and tastes? Perhaps the secret lies in the infinite variety, the manifold beauty and interest contained in an area of only about 10,000 square miles, within which each one may find what he seeks—something which makes a personal appeal to him.

The lover of nature may feast his eyes on the ever-changing sea, rich in blue and purple hues, growing pink and then wine dark at sunset, exactly as Homer describes it in the Odyssey. Grey-brown hills rise fold upon fold above the rich green and gold of orange and lemon groves, the fairy white and blush pink of almond blossom. Near at hand, in fields and gardens, colour runs riot, blazing from hedges of scarlet geranium, bushes of hibiscus, masses of purple iris and pal-

TOMORROW STREET

By Rose Bennington

I had some praise to pass along.
Like all good men, he craved it.
Tomorrow I would sing my song—
And thoughtlessly, I saved it.

I traveled down Tomorrow Street.
My good intentions paved it.
But Now came by with stumbling feet.
He found my road and caved it.

Remorse then saw that I was fed.
With evil smirk he laved it.
For Death has left my praise unsaid
He drew his wand and waved it.

Capitol News Letter

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 14—(UP)—Formidable opposition to the sales tax sent the board of equalization into a huddle this week from which emerged Fred Stewart, board member, with a two fisted speech bitterly attacking critics of the levy.

The board knows it must fight to retain the new tax. There is every indication the state federation of labor, which meets in annual convention at Monterey September 18, will formally launch a movement for its repeal. The federation is also expected to undertake an initiative movement to place the income tax issue on the ballot.

Governor Rolph's illness has brought the executive office to a standstill. The governor is unwilling to invite his political enemy Lieutenant Governor Frank Merriam, to discharge his official duties during his illness. Merriam is just as anxious to keep out of the governor's office unless transaction of imperative business becomes absolutely necessary.

Meantime hospital attendants are experiencing difficulty in keeping the governor in bed. Physicians have said he will be well enough to return to his desk in a month, but not before.

Lawrence Cobb, outspoken Los Angeles assemblyman and chairman of the ways and means committee, again attacked the administration this week on the charge it was deliberately attempting to sidestep the legislature's economy edicts.

Cobb referred to Finance Director Rolland Vandegrift's attempt to divert about $360,000 from the state emergency fund for various and sundry state agencies. Included were $72,000 for the narcotics division, $76,000 for the department of social welfare and $100,000 for forest fire protection.

The Los Angeles assemblyman took the position Vandegrift was assuming legislative functions and striving to override the legislature. He pointed out the solons had considered and turned down most of the fund requests which the director is now seeking to meet by emergency fund appropriations.

The state board of equalization declared open season, with an unrestricted bag limit, on truck operators who are attempting to dodge the truck license fee and gross receipts tax passed by the last

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Constant Vigilance Will Help to Prevent Ill Health

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

A GREAT many persons ask me the question, "What is intestinal intoxication?" I often wonder why it is so much easier to ask questions than to answer them. Just what do we mean by intestinal intoxication? The name covers such a multitude of symptoms and conditions that one hardly knows where to start. So much is said about focal infection in general, that it is hard to limit oneself to just one source of infection and intoxication.

THE name indicates a poisoning of the blood stream and consequently all the organs and tissues of the body from toxins or poisons generated in the intestinal canal. The intestinal canal is over twenty feet long. It curls and twists, gets kinked, and each coil is lapped over the other so many times that we wonder how it keeps from getting all tangled up. The inner lining is a soft, spongy, absorbing surface with many light folds and crevices.

AT THE point where the large and small bowels join together there is a narrow place with quite a sharp kink. Then the large bowel has a sharp angular turn up under the right side of the lower ribs and then another on the left side. As it crosses from the right to the left side it is almost straight while we are lying down but when we stand up it loops down, sometimes almost to the pelvis and drags the stomach and other loose tissues with it.

CONSEQUENTLY we have numerous places where food can be detained and obstructed until fermentation and decay can take place. Then our food contains so many bacteria or germs, some of which are beneficial to us and some harmful. If we are taking plenty of physical exercise and are constantly bending and twisting the trunk, there is not much chance for stagnation. When we sit at a desk or bridge table, or at a picture show or sewing circle we do not aid our intestines very much in carrying the digesting food along, so it stops for awhile. The more frequently it stops the more chance it has to multiply the bacteria.

THE intestinal walls are supplied with blood vessels and lymph glands for the free and unobstructed absorption of the food that we have eaten. It also absorbs bacteria and poisons just as freely as it does food. Intestinal toxaemia is primarily due to a stasis, or stoppage of the intestinal contents. It may be very slight at first and no appreciable harm done, but as we sit more and exercise less, this stagnation increases. Substances are left along the walls and gradually the amount becomes excessive. The muscle walls lose their elasticity, they cease to squirm and contract and push the food along. Each little stagnant point adds to another point and we slowly but surely absorb poisons and toxins from the foods that were intended to build us up and carry on successful living processes.

QUIET NERVES ARE ESSENTIAL FOR YOUTHFULNESS AND BEAUTY

By JACQUELINE HUNT

IN ALL this talk about staying young and lovely through the years, we have almost overlooked the most important thing—steady, released nerves. Do you know that you can make your own wrinkles? You etch them in your own face by the strain and hurry and confusion of living. It is not your fault — entirely.

MISS HUNT

You came into the world a tiny bundle of nerves that screamed and kicked at the bright lights, loud noises and uncomfortable clothes until your mother did something about them. Now you have gotten over that long ago and you probably think that such things no longer disturb you, but they do. The only difference is that your reactions are more restrained.

All day long your nerves cry out at alarm clocks, jangling doorbells, the traffic in the street and the tensing for working at a high speed. It is no wonder that you must frown and squint and set your jaws grimly. And that makes wrinkles.

You can learn some valuable lessons in the art of relaxation from your pets. Watch your puppy go to sleep. See how he lets all his tired, twitching little muscles let go. Watch the kitten stretch and snuggle until it finds a comfortable position and then it melts down into voluptuous ease that means release of every nerve and muscle.

Try the same trick when you go to bed at night or when you can find time for a nap during the day. Start with your legs, raise one straight up into the air and then let it drop down to the bed as though you never expected to use it again. Now the other leg. Raise your arms toward the ceiling and let them flop down any old way, as if they didn't belong to you. Raise your head and peep down to see if your toes are still there, then let it sink back on your pillow. And now if you don't go to sleep in spite of yourself, repeat the exercises.

If you are troubled with insomnia, remember that your bed may be to blame. A good bed is one in which you can lie any way in comfort, one that is soft enough to yield to the pressure of your body, yet firm enough to give you support. A good mattress is a beauty and health investment. Sleep in an airy room, one that can be completely darkened and well away from the noises of the street and rest of the house.

Another menace to healthy nerves is feet that are constantly annoying you. Choose your shoes carefully and be sure that they fit. The best shoes may cost a little more than you wish to pay, but they will last longer, you will feel better and your face will be fresher and happier. And you can well afford to pamper your feet a bit.

Before you go to bed at night, walk around your room barefooted, first on your tiptoes and then on your heels with your toes sticking up in the air. Practice walking along the edge of a rug or down a crack, placing each foot exactly in front of the other. These extremely simple exercises call into play muscles that normally are strained or used and so become weak and useless.

Rest and real foot comfort will do more than anything else to prevent nerve irritation and keep your face free from lines.

TAHOE REGION NEWS

By "SWANEE"

Dick Kirman Jr., son of Mr .and Mrs. Richard Kirman of Reno, accompanied by Hal Luce, also of Reno, recently underwent quite a novel experience while vacationing at the Kirman summer home near Tahoe Cedars.

'Twas Sunday, so the boys donned [illegible] attire, which, of course, included white flannels. The customary week end crowd prominaded the wharf at Pomin's Resort, a stones throw distant. Familiar faces appeared among the group, so the young men decided to pay their friends a little social call. Into his sister Claire's new green 18-foot canoe Dick leaped, manning the front end, with Mr. Luce bringing up the rear. Paddles flipped and flashed as they cut and sprayed the crystal clear depths. They were off! The trip over was without consequential incident, but it was the return jaunt which gave them their unexpected and long-to-be-remembered thrill. Waving adieu, the boys pushed off, Dick puffing contentedly on an aromatic cigar, their friends watching their proud progress from the wharf. Nearing the home landing Miss Claire Kirman suddenly stepped into the offing holding a camera. "Slow down, I want to take your picture!" she admonished. Out of the water the paddles came and then back in again in a vertical position, but evidently both on the same side of the boat, for in the flickering of an eyelash the canoe went over and the boys went under much to the delight of their large and appreciative audience. Gales of laughter arose from the family on shore, which turned into near convulsions when young Dick (who weighs something over 200) came up dripping wet and grinning with the bedraggled cigar still clenched tightly between his teeth.

'Tis whispered that the boys returned to Reno that night in what appeared to be masquerade costumes, and latest reports have it that young Dick Kirman is being deluged with telegrams from leading motion picture producers seeking his services as an aquatic comedian in a number of leading forth-coming attractions.

The next morning after an early breakfast, a hike to Mt. Tallac was started, the top being reached at about 3:30 P. M. The view from the summit of Tallac is declared one of unparalelled beauty, fifteen lakes being visible from this vantage point at one time. Pictures were taken and bird's eye panoramic view thru binoculars, enjoyed by each member of the party.

An added dash of mystery was injected into the adventure with the discovery of a small length of iron pipe at the very tip of the summit which contained some unintelligible and eccentric poetry and a small tablet bearing the names of former conquerors of Tallac's deep slopes. Adding their own names they replaced the container in its original position for the perusal of future mountain climbers.

The descent was made in record time, the party arriving again at Fallen Leaf about 7:00 that evening. A weenie roast around a huge bonfire was enjoyed before starting back home. The tired but happy party consisted of Mr. and Mrs Wm. Wathen and son Robert, Mrs Phil Gallenger, Kathleen Anderson Lillian Vernon, Barbara Howrigan and Gordon and Martin Spitzen, all of Tahoe.

2174 Blind Persons Receive State Aid

By THOMAS B. MALARKEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 14—(UP) Startling increase in the number of California's needy and dependent blind people was disclosed in an illuminating report submitted to Governor Rolph by Mrs. Rheba Crawford Splivalo, director of the department of social welfare.

Mrs. Splivalo revealed there were 2,174 blind people receiving state aid at the close of the fiscal year, June 30, an increase of 464 over the preceding year.

There were six blind dependents in Nevada county during the fiscal year 1932-33 as against six for the preceding year.

The state-wide increase was attributed to economic conditions which made it difficult for relatives of the afflicted to help maintain them and also cut into the earning power of many blind people.

"The tragic plight of these unfortunate sightless persons," Mrs Splvialo said, "is one of the most heart rending problems with which we are confronted. Adverse economic conditions have added to the problem of these sightless persons.

"In accordance with the governor's orders, the department is exerting every possible effort to expedite action on blind aid cases in order to lighten the burden of these penniless and helpless persons."

Mrs. Splivalo pointed out the increase averaged 1.27 blind cases per day. She added that appeals of 667 sightless persons were approved during the 12-month period while 231 were discontinued.

Under the humanitarian state aid program, blind persons over 16 years of age may receive a maximum of $50 monthly from the state and county, if they have no relatives able to care for them. This is, however, not a pension, Mrs. Splivalo explained.

Cost of the state aid program totaled $448,020 for the year. An equal amount was spent by counties boosting the grand total to $896,000.

Mrs. Splivalo declared "California ranks as one of the leading states in humanitarian treatment accorded the blind" and added the present system is the most economical method of handling the problem.

A total of 13,700,000 pounds of fish were received for canning at San Pedro in July, an increase of approximately 100 per cent mainly accounted for by a catch of 10,370,000 pounds of mackerel.

At San Diego 7,550,000 pounds were received as compared to 6,560,000 pounds last year, the division reported.

"There are corresponding increases for the calendar year to date In San Pedro the catch was 137,443,000 pounds for the first seven months as compared to 70,108,000 pounds received by canneries during a similar period last year. 'Too Silent At Mealtimes' Is Cause for Divorce Suit

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 14—(UP)—What Mrs. Hazel G. Leeper objected to in matrimony was neither her husbands silences nor the noises he made around the house. Her complaint, as she related to Superior Judge Dal M. Lemmon when she sought a divorce, was that the silences and the disturbances came at the wrong times.

Mrs. Leeper accused her husband, an attorney, of cruelty, supporting the accusation with the assertion that he was too often entirely silent at mealtimes and too noisy when she was ill.

est mauve stock, while great dark violets of a size and perfume peculiar to Sicily nestle at the foot of tall palms, whose luxuriant growth reminds us that Africa is not far away.

Among all the glowing colours painted by nature's lavish brush green and gold predominate in the Sicilian landscape. Grey-green hills emerald-green valleys, groves of dark green trees amid whole polished foliage gleams the golden fruit and under whose shadow the ground is carpeted with pale yellow oxalis, that delicate sweet-scented typically Sicilian flower. Acres of feathery yellow mustard, patches of deep orange marigolds among grass grown ruins. Temples of golden sandstone, fields of ripening corn—and in keeping with the landscape gaily painted yellow carts file in slow procession along the winding roads. The prevailing tint is repeated even underground, for the mines of Sicily do not yield black coal like those of the grim north but yellow sulphur, that precious product of the sun-baked earth! And the golden sunlight sheds its blessing on this favoured land, whose mild and sunny climate caused Cicero to declare that the sun is seen at least once on every day of the year. — Isabel Emerson, in "Things Seen in Sicily." GOODRICH TIRE CO. ADDS 4980 EMPLOYEES IN PAST FOUR MONTHS

That business, so far as the B. F Goodrich Rubber Company is concerned, continues to increase, is indicated by the news just received here by the Tourist Garage, local Goodrich dealer, that from April 1 to August 1, inclusive, 4980 additional people were employed in its factories.

"Goodrich makes it its policy t maintain employment as near present levels as possible," they said.

"In my opinion this increase employment ,due directly to the demand for Goodrich Silvertown tires with the life-saver Golden Ply is the result of the tremendous amount of newspaper advertising which has appeared in papers all over the country. People realize the dangers from blow outs at the present day high speeds and they know in order to be safe they must ride on tires which will withstand heat generated by the pace at which automobiles are driven.

"And that is exactly what the life-saver Golden Ply is designed to do. Few motorists can believe how warm a tire gets on the road when a man or woman drives for hours at a time from 45 to 50 miles an hour or even faster. Yet it is this very heat which causes the rubber to disintegrate and to blow out."

What's In A Name?

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press taffS Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 14—(UP)—What's in a name?

"Ha," commented Marie B. Stringer, chief of the state bureau of vital statistics, "you'd be surprised. There's a little geography, and sometimes some current events. And styles in names are changing all the time."

Just to prove her point she glanced through the record of California births for the last few months.

"We've had quite a few girls named Nira lately. With things going as they are we can expect a lot more. I suppose," said Mrs Stringer.

"It was not so long ago that a lot of boys were christened 'Franklin Delano.' That's always the case however. Before this administration many birth certificates carried the names of Herbert and Calvin."

It must be the California influence, or something, but the most popular names for girls are Barbara, which leads the list, and Beverly, runner-up as a favorite with fond parents.

As for the general trend of names for children, Mrs. Stringer had this to say:

"It used to be that the simple, and many times biblical, names were the most popular for girls—names like Mary, Ruth, Esther, or Ann. But that isn't the case anymore.

"Double names such as Mary Anne, Lois May, Ella Marie and many much fancier are popular.

"What about the boys? Well styles haven't changed so much. You'll still find that there are plenty of Johns, Roberts, Josephs, and the like. Parents evidentally don't worry so much about their boy's name as they do in the case of a baby girl."

And, as a final warning, Mrs. Stringer pointed out that parents should make sure that their children's birth certificates are properly recorded, regardless of the name.

NEW MAP PREPARED AS AID TO MINERS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 14—(UP)—As an aid to the small-scale placer miners the state division of mines has prepared a new map of the section from San Jose north to the Oregon boundary.

In addition to stream mining data the map gives the number of individuals mining gold in the various counties in 1932 along with the gold production from each county and placer operation.

If our clock works its hands
A twenty-four hour day,
Does it face a reprimand
By the NRA?

A typical city survey shows that approximately two-fifths of our homes get relief of some kind.

Christian Science

"Matter" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, September 17, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "In God I will praise his word, in God I have put my trust; I will not fear what flesh can do unto me" (Ps. 56:4). Other Bible citations will include: "A wise man feareth, and departeth from evil: but the fool rageth, and is confident. In the fear of the Lord is strong confidence: and his children shall have a place of refuge" (Prov. 14: 16 ,26).

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "We define matter as error, because it is the opposite of life, substance, and intelligence. Matter, with its mortality, cannot be substantial if Spirit is substantial and eternal . . . Divine metaphysics explains away matter." (p. 278).

MOONLIGHT WALTZES BARRED FROM DANCES

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept 14—(UP)—Just when things are getting better and cheerfulness once again becomes the order of the day, the city council here frowns upon one of youth's favorite activities.

The council passed an ordinance which virtually prohibits moonlight waltzes at all public dances. The ordinance specifies the dance hall "shall be brightly lighted at all times."

With the referendum petition campaign on, the Great Central Valley Water Project legislation apparently successful, supporters of the $170,000,000 enterprise are squaring away for the final battle, preceding election. They are virtually assured Goevrnor Rolph will call a special election on the issue. There is every prospect the controversy will be bitter and personal. Already the P. G. & E. is charged with being the "power behind the scenes" in the referendum movement.

ATLANTAN REACHES COAST ON BICYCLE

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK Cal., Sept. 14—(UP)—Ward du Vall of Atlanta, Ga., today was en route to his home on the last half of a 7200-mile bicycle tour.

Du Vall left Atlanta more than a month ago on a friend's dare that he could not ride to California in 30 days. He made the trip to Los Angeles in 26 days, he said, spending but $15 on the way, all of it for food. He toured Yosemite park on his way home.

cess of those authorized for elected state officials.

"Under the present political spoils system, the binennial budget is prepared by the director of finance and under the supervision and direction of the governor. Salaries and other expenses of a vast multitude of state workers are fixed at the whim of the governor and his political appointee, the finance director, with political preferment always upper most under our present spoils system.

"I would substitute a state budget officer working under the direct supervision of the state board of control. This would place full responsibility upon those officials elected by the people. The consequent savings would be tremendous

"There are countless other departments and divisions and bureaus which could and should be eliminated if the people of this state want honesty and efficiency to supercede the present wasteful political patronage.

"So far as our national affairs are concerned, we have all subscribed to the "New Deal." As a united people we have joined together with our president to fight our way back to economic independence. Californians next year will have the opportunity to effect needed reforms in state government. It is not too early now to study these problems and to arouse the public consciousness to the dangers of the political spoils system which is fast undermining the structure of state government.

DOG PREFERS TO EAT FROM PAPER SACK

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 14—(UP)—There's nothing like knowing what you want. Take Ted, 8-year-old Russian wolf hound belonging to W. B. Albertson, superintendent of a state prison road camp.

For a long time Ted has seen the prison road workers receive their lunches in paper bags, open them and eat their food. The method apparently was deeply impressed on the dog's mind.

A plate of food placed before Ted doesn't mean a thing. But bring him something in a paper sack and he trots contentedly away to eat whatever is in the bag.
